

Island Packet 31

The Island Packet 31 is unique for its exceptional livability and innovative blend of the modern and traditional. It stands apart for the special merits of its modern full-keel design and versatile, easily managed rig, providing an unmatched combination of performance with ease of handling.

The Island Packet 31's broad beam and long waterline afford an exceptional amount of interior room and livability. An innovative tri-cabin layout provides privacy without sacrificing light or space. The forward cabin has its own access door to the large head compartment with vanity and shower. The main saloon with fold-down table will seat a group for dining or provide an inviting social atmosphere. The unique quarterberth/nav station area quickly becomes an enclosed quarter cabin by pulling out the folding pocket door and folding up the nav table. The U-shaped galley features an 11-cubic-foot icebox, deep, double stainless steel sinks, and ample storage to provision extended cruises. Hand rubbed teak bulkheads and a varnished teak and holly sole combine with designer fabrics to impart a feeling of luxury and warmth below. The extensive list of standard features make the 31 the best equipped yacht in its class.

lopside, large unobstructed deck and cabintop surfaces provide safe footing and room for stretching out. The cockpit features large lockers, an icebox, freshwater shower, and a rack-and-pinion steering system unmatched for its positive feel and reliability.

The integral hull and keel designs provide the strongest possible construction to withstand the severe stress of heavy seas and grounding. The moderate-draft full keel or optional shoal keel with centerboard give the capability for bluewater passages as well as exploring shallow coastal waters.

The modern full-keel design features a cutaway forefoot, firm bilges, and a protected counterbalanced rudder and propeller, providing contemporary performance with the traditional virtues of seakeeping, safety, and tracking.

All these attributes together with extraordinary quality, detail, and NMMA certified construction combine to make this yacht the top choice for the knowledgeable cruising sailor.
