Skerry

Easy to build, easy to row, and easy to sail – the Skerry is a truly versatile boat, and a pretty one, too.

Our Skerry is that rare boat combining excellent rowing and sailing qualities into one attractive craft. This is the perfect boat in which to mount an expedition in protected waters, cruising from beach to beach and camping on shore. Sail when there's wind, row when there's not. You'll cover the miles either way.

The sprit rig is easy to setup and handle, powerful for its size, and stows inside the hull for convenience. The hull is stable and buoyant, whether you're running in choppy seas or lifting over motorboat wakes. Capacity is three adults. If the wind doesn't suit, you can row the Skerry all day long. With a long, easy glide and excellent tracking a cruise under oars alone can be contemplated, averaging 3.5 knots for hours at a time.

Two rowing positions permit the Skerry to be rowed with one, two, or three adults on board.

The Skerry uses our exclusive patented lapstrake construction to achieve maximum strength with minimum weight. The sides are 6mm Okoume, while the bottom is 9mm, sheathed with fiberglass for those hard beach landings. The interior includes 9mm Okoume frames and sealed air tanks at the bow and stern for buoyancy.

The Skerry measures 15'0" overall and 4'6" wide. Draft is 5", or with the daggerboard down, 30". The rudder kicks up easily for beach landings.
